WOMEN OF DISTRICT 11 HOLD SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION AT PINEVILLE AL DAY YESTERDAY

Mrs. Bayless, State President, Talks On Proposed Club Work, Many Reports—Meet Next Year At Williamsburg

BEAUTIFUL LUNCHEON AT NOON AT CONTINENTAL

The Eleventh District Women's Club convention was held yesterday at the Presbyterian church in Pineville, with the largest and most representative attendance the district has ever had. Mrs. W. H Worsham, of Corbin, district governor, presided over the sessions. The following clubs were represented: Barbourville Civic League, Barbourville Woman's Club, Corbin Woman's Club, Woman's Improvement Club, Coxton Community Club, Harlan Civic League, Middlesboro Woman's Club, Pineville Woman's club and Williamsburg Woman's club

The convention opened at 8:30 a. m. with call to order by Mrs. Worsham and invocation by the Rev. C. L. Nesbit. "The Bridal Chorus" from the "Rose Maiden" was then beautifully sung by Mrs. G. H. Marting, Miss Mary Louise Colemary, Mrs. C L. Nesbit, Mrs. E. W. Pitman, Mrs George Hodges, Mrs. Ray Moss and Mrs. R. M. Watt. The address of welcome was then given by Mrs. Will Wood, president of the Pineville Woman's club, who gave a reason for the existence of woman's clubs and welcomed the visitors to Pineville. Mrs. L. L. Robertson of Middlesboro gracefully responded, praising Pineville for its beauty and hospitality.

Following this came interesting reports from the various clubs in the district, which are printed elsewhere in this issue. Mrs. Worsham gave a short report of her work as governor, mentioning particularly the organization of three new clubs for the Federation, the Burnside Woman's Missionary Circle, Coxton Community League and the Williamsburg Woman's club.

Mrs. Bayless Chief Speaker

Mrs. Benjamin Bayless, president of the Kentucky Federation of Woman's clubs, spoke next, giving a splendid and comprehensive idea of the purpose and interests of the Woman's club organizations. Mrs. Bayless is well-known here, having directed the Red Cross work here during the war, a fact that she pleasantly referred to. She spoke first of the Woman's club school under national president Mrs. T. G. Winters, which she attended this summer and announced a similar school, on a smaller scale for the state convention at Crab Orchard next year.

Telling the work of the federation, Mrs. Bayless named three characteristics of it which she regarded as its chief ones. First, she said, it develops the habit of coming together to talk over plans and teaches women to express themselves, a faculty which oriental women never possess. Next Mrs. Bayless said, the woman's organizations give an occupation to the middle-aged woman who has reared her family and has a wealth of experience and of time to devote to the causes these organizations sponsor And last, Mrs. Bayless praised the varied program of the clubs, taking up nearly every form of improvement work imaginable. There are 36,000,000 women in the woman's organizations in the the United States she said and the clubs furnish enough interests to keep them all busy. She outlined the splendid organization of the clubs, with national chairman, state chairman under them and club chairmen under them, although, of course, the states do not take up all the national departments or the individual clubs all the state divisions.

Outlines Year's Program

Finally Mrs. Bayless told her audience the three things which she wanted every club in the state to do this year. The first she discussed was Junior work, bringing the girls of high school age and older into the club as an auxiliary and training them for club work. The second was studying international relations, and discussing in four different club programs the four international peace plans, the Hague conference, the League of Nations court, Secretary Hughes' plan for a World Court and the conference at Washington for disarmament. Mrs. Bayless last outlined the educational legislative program for 1924 which she urged the women to support. This program includes better public schools and appropriations to bring the University of Kentucky up with the universities any place else in the United States; compulsory education of blind children with facilities for this education; and better feeble-minded institutions, making them a training school for the inmates and insisting on sending these unfortunate children to them as soon as possible. Mrs. Bayless also said the reestablishment of the forestry department and a law for state constabulary giving the rural districts the same protection as the city districts, as further aims of the clubs.

Following Mrs. Bayless came a series of reports from state chairman of divisions. Mrs. James Darnell of Frankfort, chairman of industrial and social conditions, outlined the purpose of her department as follows: To get the world back into the sane and normal condition; to improve working condi-

Junior Organization

American spirit; and to promote co-operation. She stressed that the better conditions for woiking women meant women in the home, too.

Mrs. J. V. Pilcher of Louisville, chairman of junior membership, speaking next on this work, emphasized the importance of training girls for club work and leadership, and showing how a junior club could help the senior club. She asked particularly for each club to take this matter up in some way this year.

Miss Gertrude Black of Barbourville read the report of Mrs. Lafferty history chairman, asking for a History Day in each club every year, urging pilgramages to historic places and the preservation of any historic papers old documents, newspapers and letters possible to obtain.

Mrs. H. V. McChesney of Frankfort, chairman of the fine arts department spoke on the poster contest of the Kentucky Good Roads Association, being put on by the Woman's Club. School children are asked to design posters ultimately to be used as calendars for the good roads. The best of these in each district will be used in the calendar, together with one poster from the state at large as the twelfth. The prizes, $25, $15, and $5 will be given in each district.

After this report the convention adjourned for lunch in the Continental hotel dining room. This room, decorated under the supervision of Mrs. Lynn Golden and Miss Laura Creech, was one of the most beautiful sights imaginable. Its four walls were lined with green tree boughs from which stalks bearing large pink crepe paper roses bloomed. The chandeliers were swathed in pink and white crepe paper from which hung pink and white streamers. In the center of each table was a huge pink rose, from which green ribbons extended to each plate. A small pink rose was attached to each of these ribbons which when pulled up showed a candy sucket attached at the other end. Candlesticks decorated in pink roses and bearing pink candles adorned the tables. The attractive pink menu cards were fastened with pink crepe paper butterflies.

Mrs. Bond, Secretary

The first number in the afternoon was Shubert's "The Lord Is My Shepherd," by the same six women who sang in the morning. The first speaker then was Mrs. Benjamin F Perry of Lexington who spoke on world conditions, based on observations made in a recent trip to Europe. She declared that a desire for freedom was the greatest thing that had come out of the war and added the startling statement that France and Italy were both more democratic than England. In this last country, she said, things were in a critical state and there was more dissatisfaction and less patriotism there than she had found elsewhere. She condemned the English charity system and declared that she fell sure the monarchy there is doomed. The restlessness of the world she said, was caused by the submerged idea of brotherhood which is slowly developing and must have place, and she appealed to the women to develop this idea and to act together to purge the world from the "false god of war."

Following her came Mrs. Arbegast, chairman of the Americanization department, who urged four points: To have each club see to it that every woman in its community votes; to study diligently national, state and local government; to encourage the study of citizenship in the schools; and to see to it that every child is taught the story of the constitution.

Next came Mrs. H. V. McChesney again, who briefly outlined the work of the fine arts department

Just before adjournment the election of Mrs. I. N. Bond of Corbin as corresponding secretary was announced. Mrs. Worsham was reelected governor in the morning, unanimously. The next meeting of the convention, it was voted, will be held in Williamsburg.

M. H. S. DEFEATS MARYVILLE BY SCORE 14 TO 7

Game Yesterday on Local Gridiron Hardest Fought and Best Played of Season—Interest Throughout Game

BOYS NOW CONFIDENT OF VICTORY THANKSGIVING

The Middlesboro eleven defeated the Maryville high school on the local grid yesterday with a score of 14 to 6 in the hardest fought game of the season The Maryville boys had the local boys outweighed and had such a well-developed pass that it seemed as though M. H. S. would be defeated at several periods during the game.

King made the first touchdown for Middlesboro in the second quarter, while Maryville followed with a touchdown in the same quarter. King kicked goal for Middlesboro, but Maryville failed. The first half ended with the score 7 to 6 in favor of M H. S. and there was quite a bit of excitement among the spectators as both teams were playing the same class of football.

In the third quarter Vanbeber caught a punt and went 40 yards for a touchdown and King kicked goal making the final score 14 to 6. The game was scoreless in the last quarter. In the latter part of the last quarter Kuss intercepted a forward pass and ran 70 yards, crossing Maryville's goal line and would have scored another touchdown for M H. S. but the officials of the game claimed that he stepped out of bounds near the center of the field.

M. H. S. having defeated the strongest team on their schedule, it looks as if the game of games, the game with Pineville on Turkey day will be another victory for the yellow and white

The M. H. S. grid warriors will meet Harlan high school on the local field next Saturday This will be Middlesboro's second game with the Harlanites, having defeated them 40 to 0 in a previous game. Coach Kilpatrick has a game scheduled at La Follette for his second string men Friday, as their team is no match for his first team.

CAMPAIGN FOR RED CROSS NOVEMBER 14

Woman's Club Will Solicit Citizens for Membership Renewal on That Day

The Red Cross membership renewal campaign will be put on in one day only this year, and that day will be November 11, according to Mrs. R. L Maddox, chairman of the campaign. The members of the Woman's Club will be divided into groups and personally solicit every one in town for their membership fee on that day.

It is very important for the membership renewal to be made by a representative amount of citizens, as otherwise the Red Cross will be taken from this city. Every one appreciates the remarkable worth of the Red Cross to Middlesboro, particularly to to schools, and for this reason there will surely be no difficulty in getting renewals. This membership campaign is not covered by the Community Chest.

Since the war was concluded by an armistice and our army and navy recalled, the people of the United States have sunken into a deplorable apathy regarding the post-war demand for the Red Cross. So many are in the habit of thinking and saying, "Why and Red Cross now?"

There always has been a Red Cross, since its inception a few years ago. Before the war, it was the Red Cross which applied itself to famine relief, the care of the injured in any calamity Concerning this latter class, it may be said that since 1881 it has received and administered $14,831,00 in its field of need. So long as fire, accident, pestilence, epidemic and disease exist, the Red Cross will find a place of service.

BISHOP BURTON AT EPISCOPAL CHURCH TOMORROW

There are seven candidates for confirmation at this time. The public invited to the service.

The English and Welsh birth rates for April, May and June were the lowest on record, except during the war.

DAWSON ACCEPTS CHALLENGE OF FIELDS FOR JOINT DEBATE IN ASHLAND THIS AFTERNOON

Republican Candidate Leaves Bed in Pineville to Meet Opponent in Home District—Debate At 2 p. m.

DAWSON CONCLUDES CAMPAIGN HERE MONDAY NIGHT

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 3.—Campaign activities of the two major parties drew to a climax today as the two candidates for governor, William J. Fields democrat, and Charles I. Dawson, republican, went to Ashland, Boyd county, for a joint debate this afternoon. It is an outstanding feature of the closing days of the campaign and is expected to eclipse in importance the final speeches of the candidates Monday. Fields will make his last address in Sandy Hook and Dawson will close at Pineville and Middlesboro.

Fields' challenge to Dawson came out in the Ashland Daily Independent yesterday afternoon without any previous notification to Dawson. The news was telegraphed to the republican leaders in Ashland to Mr. Dawson, who was in bed at Pineville, fixing to have have his throat, which has been giving him trouble, treated. At news of the challenge he got up and left for Ashland on the evening train. Mr. Dawson was to have spoken in Harlan today, but he cancelled the engagement, sending the rest of his speaking corps on there. The debate this afternoon, which promises to eclipse any thing of the kind in recent political history in Kentucky, will be held at 2 o'clock. Mr. Dawson will come to Pineville tomorrow, speak there Monday afternoon and here Monday night.

URGE PEOPLE TO JOIN RED CROSS

Ministers of U. S. to Give Invitation to Roll Call Armistice Day

WASHINGTON, Nov 3.—Urging church people throughout the country to join the Red Cross during the annual roll call, which begins on Armistice Day, the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches declares that the foreign activities of the American Red Cross have been a long step toward international co-operation and friendship and for the abolition of war.

In its statement the Commission points out that mankind will never reach the millenium at a bound, but by the steady march of millions of intelligent, noble-minded and consecrated men and women who daily take the next step in the building of an orderly, friendly and co-operative world system.

The statement says in part: "The Day, November 11, 1918, calls to mind the hysterical joy that swept the nations when wireless and cable messages informed us that the Armistice was signed and our millions of boys were no longer to be exposed to sudden death. What hopes and expectations then lit up all our horizons. The 'Great War' was ended, and millions hoped that 'war was to be no more.'

"But five weary years have passed and those visions and hopes have been fading away. They are now often sneered at and preparations for war more dreadful and destructive go on apace. Armistice Day has been losing its significance as the years have passed.

"Friday, November 11, 1921, was significant in America as the day for the opening of the Conference on Limitation of Armament, which day was also chosen for the Memorial Service to the Unknown Soldier, and the dedication of the national monument in his honor Simultaneous services to the nation's unnamed heroes were held that day in all the principal cities and churches of America. By miracles of science, the voice of the President delivering the memorial address in Washington was heard by hundreds of thousands in the chief cities from coast to coast: they also joined with him in the Lord's Prayer and sang together with the great throng at Washington, America's most popular hymn—America. And throughout the land, at noon, for two full minutes the nation kept silence in memory of those who had suffered and died for us in the Great War. That was a wonderful day. And November 11 bids fair to be long remembered as the Unknown Soldier's Day.

"The American Red Cross is a great national institution in whose splendid activities Americans may take justifiable satisfaction. Its immediate response to the appeal of Japan's appalling calamity is only the most recent example of its splendid activities. This practical expression of the Christian spirit of our entire people, made possible by the Red Cross and its numerous Chapters, has already produced both in Japan and here a new spirit of mutual friendship and goodwill that will not easily be forgotten. The annual roll call for members, new and old, begins this year on Armistice Day. It is hoped that last year's membership of 1,123,000 may be doubled

"The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America believes that the designation of November 11, 1923, as World Court Sunday conflicts with none of the interests named above, but rather harmonizes with and enhances them. It therefore earnestly urges all pastors and Christian leaders to use the day in all its rich relationships and interests, culminating in the practical issue of doing something concrete, high and noble for the benefit of the nation and the world.

"Mankind will never reach the millenium at a bound, but only by the millions of intelligent, noble-minded and consecrated men and women who daily take the next step in the building of an orderly, friendly and co-operative world-system."

Both Managers Sure of Victory

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 3.—Confidence of victory was expressed today by both Chesley Searcy and Joe Morris, campaign managers respectively for republicans and democrat parties. Searcy predicted election of Dawson by 25,000 claiming fifth, tenth and eleventh districts by large margins, and declaring the republican nominee will attract women and the independent vote. Morris refused to concede the fifth district claiming it by 2500 and predicted victory for Fields by 49,000. Morris said he expected to carry every district except the tenth and eleventh. "Only a big stay at home vote can prevent a democratic landslide," Morris said. Searcy said Fields had made "no impression people and had been steadily losing ground." He asserted his "calculations of a republican victory were based on accurate estimates and not on guesses."

A THOUGHT

Ye mu therefore have sorrow; but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you—John 16:22.

Why all delights are vain: but that most vain which with pain purchased doth inherit pain.—Shakespeare.

HARLAN COUNTY AND THE ELECTION

What is the best interests of the people of Harlan county in the Governor's race?

There comes a time in the life of every person when he or she has to decide some vital question. There is a vital question confronting the electorate of Harlan county today. Are we to support the Democratic ticket or the Republican ticket? As a candidate for Governor we have Charles I. Dawson, heading the ticket. A man from Eastern Kentucky, and who beyond question has the good of Eastern Kentucky at heart.

He stands opposed to a tonnage tax on coal. He is a friend of good roads. He will be, only too glad to extend the primary road system as outlined in the state and will be more interested in the section of the state where he knows our road needs.

He is unalterably opposed to the enactment of measures requiring registration in rural districts, likewise opposed to any legislation disfranchising persons who cannot read or write.

On the other han Mr. Fields refuses to commit himself on the tonnage tax; he professes undying friendship for the farmer; claims that he is their only salvation; that he will increase both the size of their crops and the price thereof; that if he is elected two stalks of corn will grow where only one has grown heretofore. We all know that this is camouflage. Yet he thinks we are ignorant enough to be deceived by his promises. He would not build or recommend the construction of a mile of road in Southeastern Kentucky. He is not and has never said he was a friend to the laboring people. If he is their friend why don't he say so? He says he is a friend of the farmers.

Go to the polls next Tuesday and put your stamp in the circle under the Log Cabin and all will be well.—Harlan Enterprise.

WOMAN'S WORK IN THE WORLD

The remarkable work which the women of Kentucky, and of the United States are doing through their organized clubs was stressed more clearly at their meetings yesterday, perhaps, than it had been here before. The fact that, as one woman expressed it, they are making the home the center and not the circumference of their activities, is, is an influence on state and national affairs which is felt in every quarter.

These women are practically all of them wives and mothers who realize that they are immeasurably better wives and mothers if they broaden their point of view by acquainting themselves with the people and the movements in the world about them. No woman can train her son or daughter to meet squarely the problems of life unless she herself is acquainted with them. A woman who deliberately secludes herself from the affairs of her city, social or political, is unfair to her children and to herself and she denies her children knowledge and privileges which they can never make up for.

The women who are doing these big things in their clubs have realized that the problems of the modern world can only be coped with by active public service. During the past ten years the women, by their splendid organization and unceasing work, have brought about practical reforms undreamed of before. After years of lethargy the women are awaking to the fact that matters which deal with the welfare of women and children are their concern and that they can be improved only by intensive work in every quarter. Better schools, better labor conditions, uniform divorce and marriage laws, prohibition all of these and many more are the forte of the women of the country, and their accomplishment in the past assure their accomplishment in the future.

Every woman in Middlesboro who is interested in the welfare of the city about her, interested even in the welfare of her children, must realize the great benefit of this organized woman's work and for this reason should actively align herself with it.

Tennessee Game Laws

Editor Daily News:

It is reported that one or two of our hunters have been over in Tennessee shooting quail out of season. The season opens November 25 and all good sportsmen obey the law and, whether you have a license or not it is strictly forbidden to hunt quail before the shooting season.

Middlesboro hunters should prove their sportsmanship by obeying the law and having the good will of all the farmers.

A QUERY

You say your taxes are too high.
But do you vote?
About extravagance you sigh.
But do you vote?
How long, you wail, must we endure
This state of things which keeps us poor?
How long? I do not know, I'm sure:
But do you vote?

The lights are bad, the streets a mess:
But do you vote?
Your indignation you express.
But do you vote?
You say the bosses rule the show,
That graft is reaching high and low,
And doubtless all you say is so,
But—do you vote?

You howl at rotten politics.
But do you vote?
You howl at bosses and their tricks,
But do you vote?
You say, oh Decent Citizen,
(We've heard you, time and time again)
"We want things run by business men!"
But—do you vote?

Unless you do (I wonder, "do" you?)
You've got just what is coming to you!

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 8—MERRY BILL MOCKING BIRD

"My, but you have a nice voice!" said Nancy.

"Too wit, too wit, too weet, weet, sugar cane is good and sweet," sang a little bird blithely.

Nancy and Nick peeped through the cane stalks to see who was singing and saw a little gray and white bird sitting on top of one of them, singing as though his throat would burst.

"My, but you have a nice voice!" said Nancy. "What's your name, little bird?"

"My name is Merry-Bill Mocking Bird," answered the little bird, not a bit frightened at seeing a little boy and girl so close to him.

"And where do you live?" asked Nick.

"Oh, most anywhere at all," answered Merry-Bill carelessly. "I was born in my mother's nest, snugly hidden in some Spanish moss in an old oak-tree near a house in Dixie Land. I stayed at home until I was educated and since then I've lived 'most any place at all!"

"Were you educated?" asked Nancy. "What did you learn?"

"Flying and singing and a few manners," said the little bird. "Although I am afraid I didn't learn any too many manners because I love to tease people so. Besides I can imitate any sound I have ever heard. That's where I get my name. I can mock anything from a cat to a sawmill."

"I know a bird that can do that!" said Nick. "He's called Copper Cat-Bird."

"Well I declare!" said Merry-Bill. "Isn't that interesting though! Copper Cat Birdie may come in and be learned a lot from me. He can do almost anything that I can do."

"Say, Mister Mocking Bird," said Nancy, "can you go like a robin?"

"Can't I, though? Just listen!"

"Cherree, cherree, red and sweet, red and sweet, good to eat, eat, eat, eat, eat!"

"That's fine!" cried the Twins, clapping their hands with delight.

"Can you go like a crow," asked Nick eager for more.

"Can't I, just! Listen!" said Mister Mocking Bird, and he went, "Caw, caw, caw!" exactly like Chris Crow out in the corn-field.

After that he gave a regular concert, imitating every bird he knew from a wren to a poll-parrot.

"That's grand!" said Nancy. "I think mocking birds must be the smartest birds there are in the world. Is there anything we can do for you?"

"I think not, thank you," answered Merry-Bill happily. "Except to come and see me again sometime. Goodby!"

"Goodby!" said the Twins, as he flew away.

America's Favorite Songs

One of the most typical southern songs ever written—and composed by a Pittsburger! As a matter of fact Stephen C. Foster, although a northerner, seemed to have a penchant for writing songs about the sunny south. In the case of "My Old Kentucky Home," this anomaly was somewhat relieved, for it was written in and inspired by the state it celebrated.

The tradition is that the words and melody came to Foster one summer while he and his sister were guests of a relative, Judge John Rowan, on his plantation near Bardstown, Ky.

The Inspiration

Upon rising one morning, the story goes, Foster was greeted by the song of the mocking bird, while the call of the wood thrush sounded from the neighboring trees. In the fields flooded with golden sunlight could be seen the negro slaves at their labors, while the children were at play nearby.

A few minutes suffice to set the scene in poetic form: the melody shaped itself to the words and soon Foster handed a copy of the song to his sister, who was the first to sing it. Thus was this immortal song created in the inspiration of the moment.

Because of this song, Kentucky has considered Foster an honored son by adoption. The Rowan estate was transformed into a state park and appropriately the dedicatory exercises were held July 4, 1923, the seventy-ninth anniversary of Foster's birth.

My Old Kentucky Home

The sun shines bright
In my old Kentucky home,
'Tis summer, the darkies are gay,
The corntop's ripe
And the meadow's in the bloom,
The young folks roll on the little cabin floor.
All merry, all happy and bright,
By'n by hard times comes a knocking at the door,
Then my old Kentucky home, good night!

Weep no more, my lady,
Oh, weep no more today!
We will sing one song
For the old Kentucky home,
For the old Kentucky home, far away.

They hunt no more for the 'possum and the coon,
On the meadow, the hill and the shore,
While the birds make music all the day:
They sing no more by the glimmer of the moon,
On the bench by the old cabin door:
The day goes by, like a shadow o'er the heart,
With sorrow where all was delight:
The time has come when the darkies have to part,
Then my old Kentucky home, good night!

The head must bow, and the back will have to bend,
Wherever the darky may go:
A few more days and the trouble all will end,
In the field where the sugar canes grow:
A few more days for to tote the weary load,
No matter, 'twill never be light,
A few more days till we totter on the road,
Then my old Kentucky home, good night!

I expect, little Marquise, that most women would have been consumed with curiosity about what that advice was Syd had given Jack which would have saved him a lot of trouble before and after we were married. I never referred to it.

I have always felt I had no right to inquire into John's life and affairs before our marriage even if those affairs precipitated some consequences that might in some way change the complexion of our married life. I wonder if I am wrong?

Were you curious, little Marquise, were you jealous? Is it a sign of love or vanity that makes one person jealous of another? It had always seemed to me that it was a sign of an inferiority, a confession that one believed the person of whom one was jealous cleverer or more beautiful than one's self. Of course a curiosity about John's actions before he knew me would not argue superiority or inferiority on my part and I was quite sure that since our marriage whatever fault John may have shown, he had never had the slightest interest in any other woman.

"I want you to look your prettiest," he continued quickly, after making that break about taking Syd's advice. "You are looking a little pale lately, honey. Why don't you use some of that new rouge the girls are all wearing nowadays?"

I laughed outright, little Marquise, at the idea that, while I was saying to myself he never had the slightest interest in any other woman, he had been interested in all women enough to see that most of them were using rouge on their cheeks nowadays.

"What are you laughing at, dear," he said in a hurt voice.

I couldn't tell him so I took refuge in another half question. "Surely, Jack, you wouldn't want me to lose my sense of humor, would you?"

"Certainly not," he asserted, his thought immediately diverting from his own question. "You know, Leslie, before we were married I rather had an idea that no woman had a sense of humor and I tell you that was one of the reasons I was afraid to ask a girl to marry me. I thought she took herself seriously all the time. That I should either knock her down weekly or be bored to death daily."

"It would probably be the latter, Jack," I rejoined, "I can conceive of you being bored but never being a brute."

As I said this Jack's arms were about me, his lips were pressed close to my own. Everything in the world except our mutual love had gone out of my mind. Oh, little Marquise, there are some things for which you should envy me for although your lover was a king, he was only your lover and there are times in every wife's life when a certain oneness, a certain dependency, a certain stableness is added to the thrill of love giving it that bliss which cannot be described but which makes a heaven here on earth. To be a man's wife is much the best thing that can come to a woman after all.

This was one of the great moments and for fear I would show too much emotion, which I know Jack did not like, I said, "I'll go away and dress now."

"Yes, do dear, I want to make old Syd envious."

Did your kingly lover ever say anything as nice as that to you?

TOMORROW—Leslie goes on with the letter—Radiant with joy.

Autumn

When autumn comes
At last to me,
May I be robed
As is the tree:
May I stand out
In splendor dressed
Not gaunt and pale,
But at my best.

When autumn comes
And age is near,
When I have almost
Run my year,
May something fine
Which men can see
Proclaim what I
Have tried to be.

May all my failures
Be forgot.
And all my faults
Remembered not:
May friend or foe,
If such there be,
Find something fit
To praise in me

When autumn comes
And strength is spent,
I shall be happy
And content,
If in my passing
Men shall see
The grace and charm
Which mark a tree.

High School Mask Dance Last Night

A number of high school girls entertained last night at the Elks' Home with a Hallowe'en mask dance. The hall was attractively decorated in Hallowe'en style, with cornstalks and autumn leaves to give atmosphere, yellow and black streamers in the doors and on the walls and with the lights swathed in yellow and black. Watts' orchestra furnished the music. Miss Jess Buchanan was gypsy fortune teller in a booth especially fitted up for fortune telling. Chaperones were: Mrs. G. W. Easton, Mrs. C. P. Dadison, Mrs. William Wallbrecht, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Lear, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Callison and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. More.

Woman's Club Banquet at Hotel Last Night

The officers of the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs of the Eleventh District and the Pineville Woman's club, and the husbands of the Middlesboro Woman's club were entertained last night at a delightful banquet by the members of the Middlesboro Woman's club. The dining room was beatifully decorated in white asters and green foliage and tiny old-fashioned boquets of green candies in a white frill helped to carry out the club color scheme, green and white. Mrs. D. G. Hinks, president of the local club, was toastmaster. After the introduction of the state and district visitors, Mrs. A. A. Arthur made a short talk on the great work of the Woman's Club in the past ten years, since, she said, woman had made home the center not the circumference of their activities. She added that nearly every great philanthropic work in this time had been fostered by the Woman's Clubs and that they represented a source of undreamed of power. Mrs. W. H. Worsham, district governor, spoke next thanking Middlesboro for the banquet and giving the following definition for Federation: F for fellowship, E for education, D for definiteness of purpose, E for efficiency, R for reforms, particularly legislative, A for action, I for ideals, O for others, and N for needs. Next Prof Surmann played two beautiful violin numbers, accompanied by Mrs. J. T. Alderson. Mrs. B. J. Bayless, then, the state president, gave a splendid talk, speaking first of the wonderful value of coming together to discuss problems and then emphasizing the importance of the vote to the women as the only way to influence needed legislation. She outlined the club's educational legislative program as was given yesterday afternoon and gave the following proposed national legislative program: National uniform and marriage and divorce law, a federal education bill, making Mammoth Cave a national park and protecting children in labor. She also stressed the great importance of adjusting international relations. Next Miss Lillian Seay sang a beautiful solo, accompanied by Mrs. R. L. Maddox. Following her Mrs. Abergest gave a short talk on citizenship and the importance of women exercising the ballot to lift the government out of partisanship and to make better conditions for their children. The last number on the program was a mandolin solo by Mrs. Maddox accompanied by Mrs. Alderson.

Miss Virginia Barry's Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Virginia Barry to Edward Yeager, cleverly announced Thursday afternoon by Mrs. W. R. Pool, at a party given by Mrs. M. S. Callison, was as much of a surprise to the hostess as to the guests. The announcement was read by Mrs. Pool from a note tied with a large lavendar ribbon around the neck of a tiny Persian cat. David Pool brought the cat into the room in a basket. No date was set for the wedding. Mrs. Callison's party was given at Mrs. Pool's home because of the illness of Mr. Callison. The house was attractively decorated in Hallowe'en design and Hallowe'en fortunes were presented the guests. Two contests furnished entertainment in the first of which, a story telling contest, Mrs. R. L. Maddox won the prize, and in the second of which, a peanut shelling contest, Miss Laura Hubbard was the winner. Mrs. Callison was assisted by Mrs. Pool, Mrs. R. M. Barry, Mrs. Francis Callison, Mrs. W. K. Evans, Mrs B. B. Campbell and Miss Lina Rennebaum. The guest list follows: Mrs. C. T. Cleland, Mrs. Hugh Allen, Mrs. F. D. Hart, Jr., Mrs. H. E. A Head of Cabbage

To the woman who is cooking for two or three a simple head of cabbage often causes much perplexity.

A quarter of a head is often more than enough for one mean and after the cabbage is cut it must be used soon or wasted. Perhaps cooked cabbage is taboo in the family and raw cabbage for four or five meals in succession seems too much of a good thing.

If the odor of the cabbage is the main objection, try cooking it uncovered. Parboil and carefully drain before dressing for the table. Cabbage really has a more delicate flavor than cauliflower or brussels sprouts if it's carefully cooked and served.

In cold weather a cut head of cabbage can be kept for several days if wrapped in oiled paper and freshened in cold water before using.

With cabbage at 5 cents or more per pound none should be thrown away.

The story of this head of cabbage may help you with your next week's menu planning.

With the fish dinner of Friday serve a cabbage salad.

For Saturday luncheon use the left-over fish with cabbage in a salad. The menu might be something like this:

Fish and Cabbage Salad
Hot Cheese Sandwiches
Cookies Tea

Serve cabbage au gratin with the Sunday roast.

Monday plan to have a vegetable soup and use cabbage, carrots, tomatoes and onions for the vegetables. The tomatoes and carrots seem to absorb the disagreeable pungency of the cabbage and the soup is really delicious.

Cabbage Salad

One cup finely shredded cabbage 1-2 cup diced celery, 1 apple, 2 tablespoon nuts, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 table-poons oil, paprika.

Add salt and sugar to cabbage and crush slightly with a wooden potato masher. Add celery and apple diced and mix well. Add vinegar, stirring well with a silver fork. Add oil and continue stirring. Sprinkle with paprika and arrange on salad plates. Sprinkle with nuts and serve.

If you happen to have a slice of canned pineapple add this, cut in small pieces. The tartness of the pineapple is quite an addition to the salad.

Fish and Cabbage Salad

One cup cold flaked fish 1 cup cabbage finely shredded, 1 green pepper, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon minced parsley.

Remove seeds and white ribs from pepper and cut in shreds. Mix fish and cabbage and pour over lemon juice. Let stand half an hour. Add pepper, salt and parsley. Make moist with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce. Sprinkle with paprika before serving.

Cabbage au Gratin

Two cups finely shredded cabbage, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoon flour, 1 1-2 cups milk, 1 tablespoon grated cheese, 1-4 cup coarse bread crumbs, salt and pepper.

Put cabbage into slightly salted boiling water and boil, uncovered, for 15 minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water. Drain. Put in well buttered baking dish and pour over the sauce made by melting butter, stirring in flour, slowly adding milk and cooking until thick and smooth. Add cheese and stir until melted. Cover with crumbs dot with bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven until crumbs are brown.

Cabbage cooked this way will not fill the house with a disagreeable cabbage odor.

This one head of cabbage is used in four different ways, providing nourishing food at a low cost and without monotony.

MRS. AND MR. POLLY TICKK

Get ready to laugh 'cause 'tis surely a scream,
Mrs. and Mr. Polly Tickk make a good team.
The little Tickks too, lend much joy and fun;
Now Senator Highbrow carries her gun
Till Bridget O'Brien takes her in charge,
And then the men all want to go to the lodge.
But wifie is voting and learning to roam,
So poor hubby must darn and knit and stay home—
The songs they all sing will please you too;
Never a minute will we let you feel blue.
The chorus will add just worlds o' joy
With the dances they do and their ways so coy.
When dear little Cupid rolls in the love nest,
Oh goodness, oh gracious, you just watch the rest!
Come sweetheart, come child, come husband, come wife,
We guarantee for you the time of your life!"

The League has enlisted the interest of the county officials in an effort to improve the condition of the county poor. A committee has visited the superintendent of the poor farm and is to go ahead with this work.

Report of Pineville Woman's Club

At the first meeting of the year, Mrs. C. W. Metcalf, president of Pineville Woman's Club, presented her program, which was accepted as follows: Departments of Education, Music, Fine Arts, and Civics.

Under Civic Department the cemetery has been given special attention, and with the citizen co-operating with them, the grounds have been made beautiful, and many favorable comments have been heard on the efforts of this department.

Department of Education sent recommendations to the School Board of Pineville which were received and adopted.

The Music Department has been helpful at Club meetings by furnishing the music for monthly programs.

Corbin Woman's Club Report, 1923

The Woman's Club of Corbin is still on the map, despite the fact that its usefulness had been greatly retarded by death and illness in the families of its most ardent workers. With all of our troubles we have had several interesting programs, mostly patriotic. We have never ceased to do charity work and many needy families can recall the charity done this past winter and during the strike.

We observed our Annual Tag Day, March 17, and nearly $65 was turned over to the Health and Welfare League of Corbin. Later in the spring we engaged in a tree planting campaign and in one neighborhood more than 60 trees were planted. We increased our dues to $1, which includes a subscription to the Club Woman for each paid up member of the Club and we were among the first clubs in the state to raise our Club dues with this in mind. At our annual election we re-elected our officers of the past year with one exception, the party having moved from Corbin. Two delegates were sent to the State Federation meeting at Winchester.

Our Club furnished fresh milk for one month of a T. B. patient and assisted in the Baby Clinic which was conducted at the Fair for four days and paid the hotel bill of one nurse for this time. Club members sold tickets in the Gymnasium Drive and also assisted in the drive for the Kentucky Children's Home Society and donated $10 for the Club, aside from individual contributions.

On July 4, the Club sold balloons and birds to raise money to support some of the charities of the Club. A box of whistles was turned over to the President of the East Side Parent-Teacher's Association to be sold by the pupils to further the work of this organization.

A shower of clothing was given for the benefit of the work of the Community Nurse an da large number of garments suitable for the sick and babies was contributed. The nurse will distribute this clothing as she sees fit. We answered the call for Clean-up days and civic pride is rife among us. We hope to have more to report for another year.

Corbin Woman's Improvement Club Report

At the first meeting of the year Mrs. Jesse Traylor, first vice-president, presented the program for the year, which was accepted. On account of our president, Mrs. W. H. Worsham, being in New York for the summer, our Club disbanded from May 1, to October 1. However, under the instructions of our first vice-president, quite a bit of work was accomplished, which we respectfully submit to you.

On October 1, a check was mailed to the State treasurer for our State and National dues. The sum of $86.50 was realized from a week's performance of the Williams Stock Company, under auspices of our Club. A shower was given for our Community Chest. Check for $67.50 was given Community Nurse for Welfare League. Also books and magazines were furnished her for the sick. Our Parent-Teacher's Association is composed of 100 per cent Woman's Improvement Club members. Also four of our members are on the Board of Health and Welfare Association. We furnish committees to look after sick and needy passing through our city at railroad station, giving hot soups, clothing, etc., as their needs may demand. Expended for charity since May 1, $50. We assisted in Gymnasium drive. Also drive for the Kentucky Children's Home Society. We furnished assistant nurse and also paid the hotel bill for visiting nurse during the Baby Clinic at our Tri-County Fair for four days. Since October 1, we have added six new members to our roll.

Barbourville Civic League

This club, with sixteen active members, waged intensive campaigns against rats and flies in the early summer; has done a great amount of civic welfare and Red Cross work; helped promote several beneficial programs in the schools; and gave sums of money to several worthy causes.

Williamsburg's Woman's Club

This club was organized October 30 with the following officers: Miss Minnie Murphy, president; Mrs. E. W. Allison, first vice-president; Mrs. T. G. Roberts, second vice-president; Mrs. Ed Huston, corresponding secretary; Miss Flora Atkins, recording secretary; Mrs. A. W. Whitehead, treasurer, Mrs. A. S. Brown, auditor.

Your Health

Earache

Have you ever stopped a moment to consider that almost everything in life, customs and habits change except the use and misuse of the old-fashioned neighborhood remedy? The cure for earache is clearly one of these. The ear plug of cotton, usually accompanied by the "dropping in" of sweet oil and laudanum, in spite of all that shall ever be said or written against it, will be continued. Roasted onions and hosts of similar substances will no doubt be used to the end of time.

Whatever the cause or remedy, earache requires careful treatment to afford relief. Neuralgia is rarely, if ever, the cause of earache. Careful examination by a physician can alone determine the real cause. Beware of "ear-drops" for relief. If you try a number and the last one affords relief, that's it. I mean, look out for it.

Earache is caused by scratching or by irritation and infection of the auditory canal. This slight infection may produce a small boil which causes temporary pain. The scratching and infection in most cases are the result of amateur attempts to remove the ear-wax. Sometimes, when this ear-wax has been tightly pressed against the drumhead of the ear, earache will result, but not usually.

Again earache may be caused by catarrhal conditions. This so-called serious catarrh is a disease of the drum-cavity. It is very common in children who are not properly cared for and sometimes is the cause of running ear and small blisters on the drumhead. Slight deafness will also result from this cause.

Earache may also be caused by nasal douches used improperly. Violent or improper nose blowing sometimes carries fluid where it irritates the ear.

No remedy is more useful or easy to apply in slight cases of earache than boiled water cooled down to a temperature the ear can stand, about 125 degrees Fahrenheit. The ear drops only give heat and hot water can do it better. Protect the ear carefully from external influences. Use a night cap if you wish; it will do no harm and often does good.

This is Colonel Charles R. Forbes, a former director of the Veteran's Bureau, who is figuring prominently in the congressional investigation of alleged irregularities in the bureau's operations during his administration.

Severe cases of earache are not for the layman to fuss with. Call your physician, as it may be a serious complication.

A metal phonograph record will appear on the market soon. Tests show it unbreakable and capable of perfect reproduction.

SURE IT DOES GOOD

Thedford's Black-Draught Liver Medicine (Vegetable) Praised by the Head of a Louisiana Family.

Lake Charles, La.—"I don't know what we would have done had we not had Black-Draught. It sure is one of the best medicines made, and am sure the best liver medicine," said Mr. Henry Garrett, of this city.

"My whole family uses it," continued Mr. Garrett. "My wife says she believes she kept off the 'flu' by taking doses of Black-Draught regularly.

"I, myself, use Black-Draught for indigestion, and it is fine.

"We used pills and tablets and other laxatives, but they never seemed to do us good, but the Black-Draught sure has, and it has come to our house to stay. We give it to our daughter for headache and torpid liver.

"I am glad to recommend anything that has been the help to my family that Black-Draught has.

"My present health is good. Have two boxes of Black-Draught in the house now."

If your liver gets out of fix, take Black-Draught. It will help to drive the bile poisons and other unhealthful matters out of your system.

Favorite Plays OF FAMOUS COACHES

BY CHARLEY MORAN
Coach Centre College

The first part of the formation is known as the square or box formation, the backs shifting into the position they run from.

The shift is made by turning on the right foot and stepping with left foot, then a jump. Backs 1 and 4 cover 3 1-2 yards while backs 2 and 3 cover only 2 yards. The backs should be in position to start as soon as both feet are squarely on the ground. The play should be so timed that every man will be in his proper position ready to start.

Having completed the first part of the formation, the backs are in the position shown in the above diagram. No. 1 back gets the ball on a direct pass from center.

Backs No. 1 and 2 start just as if they were going to run the end.

Players numbered 4, 7 and 8 box the defensive tackle in, while No. 3 boxes the opposing end and keeps him out of the play.

If all the players execute their part properly there should be a space four or five feet wide between tackle and end through which the man with the ball can pass.

If back No. 1 can reverse his field when he passes the line of scrimmage, he will often gain much ground.

No. 6 should go through fast and cut the defensive fullback down.

When the defensive left end is very strong, player 5 should help No. 3 with the end while Nos. 6 and 2 should block defensive fullback.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 4

WORLD-WIDE PROHIBITION—WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY.

LESSON TEXT—Ps. 101:1-8; Prov. 23:29-35.

GOLDEN TEXT—"I will set no wicked thing before my eyes."—Ps. 101:3.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Taking Care of Our Bodies.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Effects of Alcohol.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Progress of Prohibition at Home and Abroad

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fight Against Lawlessness.

I. Principles of a Righteous Life (Ps. 101:1-8).

This is a psalm of David the king, and therefore shows the conduct of a ruler. It is divided into two sections—the first, verses 1-4, refers to personal conduct, and the second, 5-8, to the government of others. This part of the lesson can only refer to the destruction of the saloon in the sense that all evil is to be uprooted and destroyed.

1. Personal Conduct (vv. 1-4). (1) Kindness and judgment (v. 1); (2) wise behavior (v. 2); (3) all malice put away (v. 3); all wickedness put aside (v. 4).

2. Government of Others (vv. 5-8). Only as one is right in his own heart and life is he fit to rule others. As a righteous man he will be against (1) the slanderer (v. 5). He will not tolerate such in his presence. (2) The worker of deceit (v. 7). The deceitful man and the liar are to be removed from his sight. (3) All workers of iniquity (v. 8). It is the duty of rulers to see that all workers of wickedness of all kinds be cut off. The manufacturer and seller of liquor should be regarded as notorious workers of iniquity. Those who blight manhood for sordid gain are grossly wicked.

II. The Awful Ruin Wrought by Strong Drink (Prov. 23:29-35).

1. Woes of Those Who Indulge in Wine (vv. 2, 30). (1) The awful pain which causes one to cry out, "Oh!" Many, indeed, are the pains which men suffer because of strong drink. Bodily ills innumerable can be traced to its evil influence. (2) The bitter remorse, which causes one to cry out, "Alas!" Many are the expressions of bitter regret which daily come from the lips of the drunkard. (3) Contention—strife and quarreling. Much of the fighting among men is directly caused by their passions being inflamed by strong drink. The drunken man is always ready to take offense, as well as to give it. (4) Babblings and complainings. The winebibber complains of everything—ill luck, loss of friends, of fate and of God. He sees everything wrong but himself. (5) Wounds without cause. These are wounds from fights in which a sober man would not have engaged, and from accidents which are purely the result of intoxication. (6) Redness of eyes. This has reference to the blood-shot eye of the tippler which dims his vision. All these woes come upon those who tarry long at wine.

II. The Attitude Enjoined (v. 31).

Look not at it. Do not put yourself into the way of temptation. The only safe attitude toward strong drink is total abstinence, and the only way to total abstinence is not to even look at it.

III. The Drunkard's Bitter End (vv. 32-35).

1. Acute Miseries. "It biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." Strong drink, like the poison of a serpent, permeates the whole system and ends in the most fatal consequences.

2. Perversion of the Moral Sense. This excitement causes the eyes to behold strange things. This denotes the fantastic images produced on the brain of the drunkard. Even when delirium tremens does not result, there are awful fancies which are beyond the possibility of realization. Then does his heart utter perverse things. His moral sense being perverted, his utterances partake of the same. He tells lies; his words cannot be relied upon.

3. He Is Insensible to Danger (v. 34). He is foolhardy, even as one who would lie in the top of a ship's mast, where there is the greatest danger of falling off.

4. He Is Insensible to Pain (v. 35). The drunkard is utterly ignorant of what happens to him while under the influence of strong drink. Many bruises and wounds the drunkard has which he cannot account for.

5. His Abject Bondage (v. 35). After all his sufferings, sorrow and disappointments, he goes on as a bond slave in the ways of sin.

6. Hell at Last. No drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven (I Cor. 6:10).

Whole Sum of Human Life.

Of the whole sum of human life no small part is that which consists of a man's relations to his country, and his feelings concerning it.—Gladstone.

ELEVEN O'CLOCK

The theme for the morning sermon will be

¶ "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

¶ But his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law doth he meditate day and night.
